FROM THE WILDERNESS—BRIGHTON Part 4

The blacksmiths, masons, carpenters and physician living in Benjamin Coshing's hotel in Brighton, c. 1850, were all dependent on passable roads to engage in their livelihoods. However, within ten years the wood planks, of which the Grand River Trail was built, were rotting and travelers found the going difficult. By 1870, plank road companies could not keep up with the warped and deteriorated condition of the plank roads. Gravel road companies came into being.

Native Bill Pless writes "...Not a very good gravel road, but just good enough for an excuse to charge toll. The stagecoaches had been dis-approved when the railroad was built (1871), and farmers no longer had to haul their products a great distance to markets in Detroit and Lansing, so the road (Grand River Trail) was now used for local travel. The people soon put up a strong objection to paying toll, and when the gravel road franchise ran out, it was not renewed."

This main cross-state road became a local responsibility for maintenance in addition to the local rural roads. This was accomplished by dividing the townships into 'road districts' under the direction of an elected pathmaster. In early spring the pathmaster called-out the local farmers with their wagons, graders, graders, plows, spades, shovels, pick, etc. Gravel or dirt was hauled into low places, ditches were plowed along the road side and drains for water were shoed. Farmers also were called-out after severe storms washed out the roadbeds of if trees were blown down. Non tax paying men over twenty-one had to give a day's work or pay a dollar. Tax payers who could not supply labor or equipment also paid their road tax with cash.

Right-of-way for roads was not provided for in the initial federal government surveys. Roads were usually laid out along property lines. A road three rods wide (49-1/2 feet) took half the width from each farmer's line. If detours were necessary because of terrain or water, the farmer gave the full three rods. Real estate taxes still include property of the middle of the road. Many farmers took personal pride in keeping his share of the road looking good by fencing, removing obnoxious weeds and brush, and planting shade trees to shade travelers.

Not only were graded rural roads necessary for travel and commerce, Brighton Village also faced the dilemma of providing village residents accessible routes. All streets, business and residential, were the responsibility of the Village, i.e. dirt streets.

The dam on Ore Creek, built by Orson Quackenbush to power his gist mill, resulted in the formation of the Millpond. Streams usually run through the established areas — Ore Creek was no exception. Prior to the construction of the railroad and the platting of the Smith-McPherson Addition (land west of Ore Creek to Seventh Street), farmers, peddlers, drovers, etc. from the Genoa Township area forded the stream in wagons or dugouts to reach the commercial and business portion of Brighton at Grand River and Pitch Street (Main Street). To amend this difficulty, a bridge was necessary. A trestle bridge was erected, c. 1873, and land west of the stream and north of Main Street was soon filled in. The possibility exists that the Smith-McPherson Addition developers helped with this in order to make their lots more desirable.
Society Life Members:
Tom Archer
Shirley Batten
Marilyn Campbell (IN)
Nancy Freedenburg
William & Lenore Harris
Betty & Bob Herbst
Larry & Kate Lawrence
Seth & Shannon Lemke (TX)
Carol McMacken
Joyce Powers
Douglass & Caroline Reickard
Robert & Pauline Schaffer
Anne Stratigos

2013 Business/Professional Members:
Accom Deck Accessories, Inc.
Advance Craft Builders
Fred Bonine, DDS, MDPC
Brighton Bar and Grill
Robert Clark Eye Center, MO, P.C.
Carrie Lien of Brighton
Champ’s Pub
Davis Multimedia, Inc.
Susan Doyle, realtor
Grace Pointe Church
Mancuso and Cameron P.C.
Schoolhouse Family Dentistry
SOS Livingston
Synergy Environmental, Inc.
Tom Yam Tree
Lawrence Autobody
McCirrific & Associates, P.C.
Masonic Lodge No. 247
Patrick Financial Group, LLC
Promess, Inc.
Refrigeration Research
Arch Hunter Financial Services
Life Members

Our efforts are not possible without the support of our Business/Professional members.

Brighton Historical Society has items for sale
Carol McMacken’s book “From Settlement to City”
Tiles 66 of Brighton landmarks
Afghans of Brighton landmarks
Images of America--The Brighton Area

North American Exhibition, a 501c(3) non-profit organization. Please help us fund our mission while also helping yourself with a tax-deductible contribution. Please consider supporting us with your generosity.

Brighton Historical Society
P. O. Box 481
Brighton, MI 48116-0481

Page 3
Brighton Area Historical Society - BRIGHTONAREAHISTORICAL.COM
Thanks and Recognition

Memberships:
BUNS/ROOF
McClure & Associates, P.C.
FAMILY/INDIV:

The board and chairman of a non profit organization are heartened that their guidance is supported by new and renewing members.

Thanks:
- Bert and Mariannia Bair, Judith Coeby, Jeannette Johnson, Pat Nelson, Gary Reuter and Jim Vichich who prepared the June issue of Trail Tales for mailing.
- Green Oak Charter Township offices, 10000 Silver Lake Road for stocking "From Settlement to City—Brighton—1825-1945" and "Images of America—Brighton, Michigan" for the Society.
- CoBACH volunteers for June: Joe Collins, Nancy Fredenburg, Larry Lawrence, Hank Winage, Sheryl Vignes, and Jim Vichich.
- Judith Coeby for presenting her special Civil War program called "When a Rose is Not a Rose" at the CoBACH Center.
- Tom and Marilyn Kinsky for donating two different china plates to be used for lifting column monuments as they are repaired and reinstated at Old Village Cemetery.
- Judith Coeby and Sue Skwarski for opening and closing Lyon School for the visiting teachers and children from Cornerstone School during their two days of rural education.

Society Life Members:
- Tom Archer
- Shirley Bixton
- Marilyn Campbell (fn)
- Nancy Fredenburg
- William & Lenore Harris
- Becky & Bob Herbst
- Larry & Kate Lawrence
- Seth & Shannon Lemke (fn)
- Carol McMacken
- Joyce Powers
- Douglas & Carole Reickar
- Robert & Pauline Schaffer
- Anne Stroopis

2013 Business / Professional Members:
- Accorn Deck Accessories, Inc.
- Advance Craft Builders
- Fred Budge, DDS, MSFC
- Brighton Bar and Grill
- Robert Clerk Eye Center, M.D., P.C.
- Carolee Lines of Brighton
- Champ's Pub
- Davis Multimedia, Inc.
- Susan Doyle, realtor
- Grace Pointe Church
- Mancuso and Cameron P.C.
- Schoolhouse Family Dentistry
- SOS Livingston
- Synergy Environmental, Inc.
- Tom Yuen Tree
- Lawrence Autobody **
- McClure & Associates, P.C.
- Masonic Lodge No. 347 **
- Patrick Financial Group, LLC **
- Promex, Inc. **
- Refrigeration Research **
- Archer Huntley Financial Services **
- Life Members

Our efforts are not possible without the support of our Business/Professional members.

---

Support BAHS: Become a Member or Donate

The BAHS relies on participation of its members and the generosity of its patrons. If you would like to make a donation or become member, please mail to the address provided on the form below.

---

New book released

Images of America: The Brighton Area by Genal Pratt with the Brighton Area Historical Society
128 pages, and includes 199 pictures
$20.00 + $5.00 if shipping is required

Description: This book contains a treasure collection of photographs and provides a fascinating historical record of the people, farms, and businesses that drove the growth of Brighton through the 19th and 20th centuries. The architecture, landscape, and cherished character of Brighton tell the stories that embody the foundation of our community today.

---

BAHS Leadership

President
Jim Vichich
Secretary
Judith Coeby
Interim Treasurer
Mindy Kinsey
Trail Tales Editor
Jaye Monson
Joe Collins
Nancy Fredenburg
Larry Lawrence
Thomas Reineke
Tammy Sexton
Phil Scanto
Education Liaison
Sue Skwarski

---

BAHS: How to Contact Us or Find Us

If you would like to contact us, please use the following options:

E-Mail: info@brightonareahistorical.com
Phone: (810) 250-7276

---

We Need Your Help

We are asking our members to step up and get involved. "Can you fill these jobs?"

Treasurer
Bookkeeping experience needed, knowledge of Quick-books a plus. Current Treasurer willing to advise.

Volunteers at CoBACH
Volunteer desk, help set up displays, low of personal items for displays of the early days of Brighton.

Contact Jim Vichich at 810-250-7276

---

Dates to Remember

July 3, 7, 10, 14, 17, 21, 24, 28, 31: 5pm - 8pm
BAHS hosts at CoBACH Center on Sun & Wed.

July 4: 10am
Independence Day Parade in downtown Brighton.
Competition Duck Race on the Millpond by Kiwanis following the parade.

July 11, 18, 25: 9am-12pm
Archiving/Open House at Lyon School.
CLOSED July 4

---

Brighton Historical Society
has items for sale

Carol McMacken's book "From Settlement to City"
Tiles 6x6 of Brighton landmarks
Afghans of Brighton landmarks
Images of America—The Brighton Area

---

Brighton Area Historical Society
31055 Buno Road, west of Pleasant Valley Road. The 1885 Lyon School is a fully restored, barrier-free one-room schoolhouse and serves as our organization headquarters.

CoBACH Center
202 W. Main Street, in downtown Brighton next to the Millpond. CoBACH is formally known as the City of Brighton, Arts, Culture and History Center. It is located in the historic 1879 two story brick building, also known as the Old Town Hall.
FROM THE WILDERNESS—BRIGHTON  Part 4

The blacksmiths, masons, carpenters and physician living in Benjamin Cushing's hotel in Brighton, c. 1850, were all dependent on passable roads to engage in their livelihoods. However, within ten years the wood planks, of which the Grand River Trail was built, were rotting and travelers found the going difficult. By 1870, plank road companies could not keep up with the warped and deteriorated condition of the plank roads. Gravel road companies came into being.

Native Bill Pless writes "...not a very good gravel road, but just good enough for an excuse to charge toll. The stagecoaches had been discontinued when the railroad was built (1871), and farmers no longer had to haul their products a great distance to markets in Detroit and Lansing, so the road (Grand River Trail) was now used for local travel. The people soon put up a strong objection to paying toll, and when the gravel road franchise ran out, it was not renewed."

This main cross-state road became a local responsibility for maintenance in addition to the local rural roads. This was accomplished by deeding the townships into 'road districts' under the direction of an elected pathmaster. In early spring the pathmaster 'called-out' the local farmers with their wagons, graders, graders, rollers, drags, shovels, picks, etc. Gravel or dirt was hauled into low places, ditches were plowed along the road side and drains for water were shoeled. Farmers were also 'called-out' after severe storms washed out the roadbeds or if trees were blown down. Non-tax paying men over twenty-one had to give a day's work or pay a dollar. Tax payers who couldn't supply labor or equipment also paid their road tax with cash.

Right-of-way for roads was not provided for in the initial federal government surveys. Roads were usually laid out along property lines. A road three rods wide (49-1/2 feet) took half the width from each farmer's line. If detours were necessary because of terrain or water, the farmer gave the full three rods. Real estate taxes still include property to the middle of the road. Many farmers took personal pride in keeping his share of the road looking good by fencing, removing obnoxious weeds and brush, and planting shade trees to shade travelers.

Not only were graded rural roads necessary for travel and commerce, Brighton Village also faced the dilemma of providing village residents accessible routes. All streets, business and residential, were the responsibility of the Village, i.e. dirt streets.

The dam on Ore Creek, built by Orson Quackenbush to power his grist mill, resulted in the formation of the Millpond. Streams usually ran through wet, swampy areas — Ore Creek was no exception.

Prior to the construction of the railroad and the platting of the Smith-McPherson Addition (land west of Ore Creek to Seventh Street), farmers, peddlers, drovers, etc., from the Genoa Township area forked the stream in wagons or buggies to reach the commercial and business portion of Brighton at Grand River and Pitch Street (Main Street). To amend this difficulty, a bridge was necessary. A trestle bridge was erected, c. 1873, and land west of the stream and north of Main Street was soon filled in. The possibility existed that the Smith-McPherson Addition developers helped with this in order to make their lots more desirable.

Compiled by Marieanna Bair from Bill Pless writings; "From Settlement to City" by Carol McDickson; Sanborn Maps and Census records. Additions/corrections requested. 810-229-6402

TRAIL TALES  Volume XXXII  No. 7  July, 2013

POINTs OF INTEREST:
- Help Restore a Headstone  See Page 1
- From The Wilderness—Brighton  See Page 4

Images of America: The Brighton Area Available at
Lawrence Autobody, CoBACh Center
Green Oak Township Hall

Calling 810-250-7276

Like us on Facebook at
Brighton Area Historical Society

INSIDE THIS ISSUE:
- Events To Remember  2
- Thanks and Recognitions  2
- BAHs OPT SelCH  3
- BAHs LEADership  3
- GenHOw BAH IS  3
- Historical PeRspeCtive  4

PREServe, Advance and Disseminate Knowledge of the History of the Brighton Area